

Black Vulture name contest

Author : Keith Kridler, Texas

Categories : General, Non-Daffodil

Date : January 11, 2008

Daffnet.org

For people interested in growing, showing, or hybridizing daffodils.

<https://daffnet.org>

These are Black Vultures because they have the black bare skin heads. The Turkey Vultures have a really ugly red skinned head. There is a Mexican Buzzard that they call a Caracara that looks more like a small Eagle than a vulture. Not sure what you call a big group of them but if they invite you over for dinner it is enough to GAG-A-GAL or GAG-A-GUY! These were eating a road killed armadillo. Keith Kridler Mt. Pleasant, Texas