

In Bloom today at Bramcote

Author : Roger and Terry Braithwaite, England

Categories : Daffodil Types, Standards, Winter Blooming Daffodils

Date : January 6, 2008

Hi All Roger and I wish you all a Happy New Year. When I was helping Roger to lay his irrigation system out ready to cover his late flowering bulbs, I noticed this in my bulb frame and thought I must take a photo. It is a Div 13 tazetta with a coloured cup which is flowering at about 6" high and it is the first time I have seen it in flower. Currently this is the only thing in flower or colour compared to last year when there was lots of colour. I would say here at Bramcote we are about 3 weeks later than last year therefore on time for the main shows (always allowing for a perfect season of course!!) Hope to send some more photos of the early varieties before I start showing. Looking forward to meeting you in England at the 2008 European Convention Regards Terry & Roger Braithwaite