

Daffnet.org

For people interested in growing, showing, or hybridizing daffodils.

<https://daffnet.org>

Current status of web sites Daffseek.org, daffodilusa.org, daffnet.org, daffodilmn.org, and midwestdaffodil.org

Author : Ben Blake, California

Categories : General, Publications and Resources

Date : March 17, 2008

The server hardware, that operates the above web sites, was taken down in preparation for moving to the San Francisco data-center on Saturday, March 8, 10am PDT. The server move was accomplished by Monday evening, March 10, 6pm, PDT. Other requirements such as updating name servers at other locations meant you should have been able to access the web sites by mid-week. The server hardware was down this past weekend due to a hardware problem. The bad component, a CD-ROM drive has been disabled. Currently, all web sites are now up and appear to be operating correctly. We will need to shut the server down again several times in the next few weeks, but we are trying to delay as much as possible due to the northern hemisphere daffodil show season. Thanks to everyone for your patience. Regards, Ben