

2018 June Issue of The Daffodil Journal

Author : Jolene Laughlin, Louisiana

Categories : American Daffodil Society, Daffodil Enthusiasts, General, Publications and Resources

Date : June 19, 2018

Hello all,

I am deeply sorry to be announcing another delay in the distribution of another Journal issue, but our graphic designer's computer crashed during production and our templates and formatting have apparently been lost. One way or another, we are having to start from scratch. Jeremiah did tell me he was working on getting the computer repaired, or recovering the files, around the first of June, but I have not yet received any notification that this has happened, or gotten a first draft of the issue.

After some collaboration and discussion with various Board Members, we have decided to find a new designer at this point, even though it will be a longer process for someone new to format the issue. We are in the process of searching for candidates who have previous experience in print design who can also take on an urgent, but very large, project immediately. We do have a couple of options, but even so, the best case scenario will be a mid-July distribution of the June issue.

I know you have been eagerly looking forward to the June issue's arrival, and I apologize that this has happened yet again. If you have any questions or suggestions, feel free to respond to me personally at tazetta_jo@yahoo.com.

Sincerely,

Jolene Laughlin (337) 781-8026