Not much news on olde daffnet.

It turned cold here in New Jersey about the first few days in November and stayed cold - and miserable. I planted my few daffodils in a heavy coat and gloves. Last year I planted daffodils over the Christmas and New Years Holiday and it wasn't as cold. I'm hoping that this year was the exception and not the rule. The local NJ weather man was saying that November was 15 degrees colder than normal until Thanksgiving. Than a few warm days made the month only 4 degrees colder than normal on an average.

How's the weather where you are?
