

Just an idea

Author : Rafael Diez, Spain

Categories : Breeding, Hybridizing

Date : December 29, 2019

Inspired by the insect Xylocopa violacea, I have had the idea of making a little window in the perianth tube to access the stigma without touching the anthers or cutting the flower in half. This could be interesting in this kind of narcissus that have the style very deep, probably well know technique... I am new in breeding :)

